M & M'ERS VISIT

Men Make Pilgrimage to Nephi.

MUCH PLEASURE IN TRIP

COUNTRY COUSINS GATHER TO GREET VISITORS.

The second "Get Acquainted" excursion of the Manufacturers & Merchants' association delivered the "goods" yesterday to the citizens of Salt Lake, Utah and Juab counties. The visitors were received in every city and village with enthusiasm The townfolk gathered at the depots and crossings as if it were circus day, and perhaps it was. It was a public holiday from the small boy's standpoint. Nobody thought of attending school until the big special came, stopped long enough for the band to play and departed.

Wagons filled with children and parents were driven to the station, and there they waited. They brought their lunches and hitched the horses to the back wheels of the wagon. In the meantime the housewives did their shopping, but when the "Get Acquainted" special arrived at the station everybody in that part of the country was there. Delays were frequent all along the line and the programmes had to be cut short. The excursionists arrived at Nephi at 3:16 p. m., which was the scheduled time for the train to leave on its return. This was just two hours late. body thought of attending school until

When the train pulled out of Salt Lake when the train pulled out of Salt Lake there were about 400 pilgrims on board. At Nephi about 550 hungry excursionists got off the train. At almost every station there was a delegation eager to join the "boosters" and get acquainted with their southern neighbors. The towns south of here sent about 150 representatives on the excursion.

The pilgrimage was pronounced a success because the association reached every citizen. The excursionists did it in the right way, and the people of the southern counties accepted it with entusiasm. They were made to feel that the merchants of the state needed their help in building up home industry and that in return they would be benefited. This was the object of the excursion and it was pleasantly impressed upon the memory of the people.

When the members of the association stepped from the train about 1 o'clock this morning they were tired. Even at the last they were enthusiastic and declared that it was "worth while." They were all in favor of taking another excursion further south in the state and it is probable that steps will be taken within the course of a few weeks to complete arrangements.

There was a rush for the lunch counters at Nephi, especially provided for the excursionists, when the train pulled in. Provo was the only city en route provided with a restaurant, and all that could be recovered with the train storaged there for secured while the train stopped there for a few minutes was a sandwich. When Nephi was reached the mob was starved and they were not backward in making their wants known. For an hour the counters in the armo., and hotels were filled. After the visitors had satisfied their appetites a meeting was held in the meeting house and a programme given. Mayor William H. Pettigrew presided and welcomed the visitors to the city of Nephi. In a few remarks he told what the Comrecreial club of Nephi had accomplishe for the city and stated that the several ousiness men there were members of the M. & M. association. red while the train stopped there for

"When you keep your money at home and patronize home industry you benefit yourself," President Hewlett said. "It is the business man who helps to build up your city; he helps to pay the taxes, put in sidewalks, reconstruct roads and aids you. This is why the business men want to get better acquainted with all the people of the state and boost for home butiness enterprises."

"On Sixth street," he added a second later, running across the pavement to pet a little dog that was passing. The dog licked the baby's hands and followed him. The dog was a little tramp himself and was willing to strike up an acquaintance. Frankie marched proudly to the police station with the officer. With one hand he clutched the hand of the officer, with the other he dragged his "wagon." The two—the babe and the officer—arrived at the station just as the shifts were changing. The police headquarters was crowded with officers either going off duty or coming on shift. Frankie made himself perfectly at home. He missed the doggie that had started to follow him and it was only by promising him candy that the officers held him in the station. Some one gave him a nickel and he sent one of the men in the rooms after candy. While waiting for this he turred his soap wagon box on end and made himself comfortable. In the police station there is a little cat, whe, while he never was arrested, makes his home with the prison—ers. This kitty came bouncing through the office just as Frankle arrived. Frankle and the kitty commenced a game of tag. The kitty was seldom "it."

Frankie thought the stars worn by the policeman "very pretty." He solemnly told one of the men that when he grew up he "would be a policeman, he dessed." "When you are a policeman and you find a little boy away off from his home what will you do to him?" asked some-body.

"Buy him lots of candy," came the quick answer.

From the time the train left Salt Lake at 7:30 yesterday morning until Nephi was reached at 3:10 in the afternoon never did countern friends. A deluge of advertising matter was scattered at every stopping place. Ribbons, buttons, and flags were given to the children. It was a full dress parade for the small boy and it is safe to say that he is still wearing his decorations today. Everybody was given a chance to talk and most of them delivered an impromptu speech somewhere along the route.

SLEEP DESTROYER

The Old-Fashioned Coffee.

She suffered from nervousness When the train arrived at Murray in the morning about 100 persons were at the station with a brass band. Seventy-five, including the band, boarded the special. Held's band climbed from the train as it stopped and while they were playing "Any Goods" the special pulled out. A rush was made for the train but the members of the band lacked speed. Conductor J. F. Donohue stopped the train and after half a mile walk the band boarded the train.

At Sandy the train was seventeen minutes late. About twenty persons joined the pilgrimage here. The children at Draper refused to enter the school house until the special passed. The band risked another chance on getting left and played two selections.

SAVED LIFE OF HIS SUPERIOR YEARS AGO IN BAD BLAZE.

Captain W. G. Workman, connected with the Salt Lake fire department for nearly thirty years, has been forced out of office by the so-called "American" administration. His resignation was requested Tuesday by Fire Chief C. T. Vail. At the time of requesting his resignation, Chief Vail admitted to the veteran fire fighter that he was not actuated by any personal hostility or feeling, but that Workman's decapitation had been demanded by those over him—presumably by Mayor Thompson and the "American" administration leaders. Frankie thought the stars worn by the policeman "very pretty." He solemniy told one of the men that when he grew up he "would be a policeman, he dessed." "When you are a policeman and you find a little boy away off from his home what will you do to hin?" asked somebody.

"Buy him lots of candy," came the gulck answer.

At the time of his removal Captain Workman was assistant chief of the department. He was identified with the volunteer fire fighting corps of Salt Lake City as early as 1876 and remained an active member there until the paid fire department was inaugurated in 1883, when he became a member of the regular organization, being appointed driver of the single hose reel in that year and later driver of the chemical engine. He was made lieutenant and afterward captain. The last named position he held for over ten years. In 1904 he was made assistant chief.

Park City, March 7.—Daniel Mangum was killed today in the Daly-West mine by being crushed by the fall of a heavy slab of rock. The accident is described as one of those unavoidable ones which go with mining and which occur too frequently in mining camps. He was employed on what is called the timber gang and was assisting in the timbering of a stope in the "01" winze on the 900-foot level. The crew—Godfrey Share, William Harle, Lon Olden and Mangum—were about to put up a long cap, and have to dignify the city jail with his medical personage.

"The Comedy of Arrests," or "When Shall I Be Free," is the title of a new book which might be published by Dr. D. P. Maxwell, wanted in Cleveland, O., for alleged crimes committed there. The latest chapter to the book was written yesterday when the doctor from the Buckeye state was haled into Judge C. B. Diehi's state was haled into Judge C. B. Dien's division of the city court on a charge of attempting to bribe a detective. Dr. Maxwell pleaded not fully to the charge and was remanded to jail, in default of being able to furnish bail in the sum of $1,500. The case will be tried Thursday, March 22. Unless he finds some kind person willing to put up this amount, the doctor will have to dignify the city jail with his medical personage.

While in the custody of Detective Bernhard of Cleveland it is alleged that Dr. Maxwell attempted to bribe the officer into letting him have his freedom. The consideration for this kindly act is said to have been the transfer of certain valuable mining property belonging to the doctor. The officer spurned the offer, at the same time hastening to the city attorney's office to make complaint against the doctor. The hearing yesterday was on this complaint, the doctor pleading not guilty.
